

WORKSHOP
LABELING SELF AND OTHER IN HISTORICAL CONTACTS BETWEEN RELIGIOUS GROUPS

Venue: Ruhr University Bochum, Room GA 8/133

Friday, 8 January 2010

14:00–14:30 Introduction

14:30–15:30 Thomas Kaufmann (Göttingen)

The Perception of Islam in the Late Middle Ages and the Age of Reformation

Coffee Break

16:00–17:00 Göрге Hasselhoff (Bochum)

Christians, Jews, and Muslims as Seen by Ramon Martí

17:00–18:00 Antje Flüchter (Heidelberg)

“Religions, Sects and Heresy” – Religions on the Indian Subcontinent in Early Modern German Texts

Saturday, 9 January 2010

9:30–10:30 Hans Martin Krämer (Bochum)

“The Christian Sect” as Seen by Early Modern Japanese Buddhists

Coffee Break

11:00–12:00 Ya-pei Kuo (Leiden)

Missionary Enterprise and the Conception of Religion in Late-Nineteenth-Century China

Lunch Break

13:30–14:30 Daniel König (Paris)

Different Contexts – Different Perspectives. A tour d’horizon of Muslim Perceptions of Latin Christianity (7th–15th Century)

Coffee Break

15:00–16:00 Sevket Kücükhüseyin (Bamberg)

When the Beard Is Wiser than Its Bearer. The Perception of Christianity and the Role of Christians According to the Writings of a Mawlawi Dervish from Medieval Anatolia

16:00–17:00 Concluding Discussion